

Darryl is a chatterbox and races to the local watering hole after his long day selling cars. He frequently goes with the other salesman which one, Justin is 19 and does not have a fake ID. Justin frequently ends up paying an extra amount of the bill.

- Darryl was selling a 1997 Honda Civic when his customer asked if he had ever head of Drinkr, the bill splitting app for drinkers. Darryl was excited and wanted to know more.

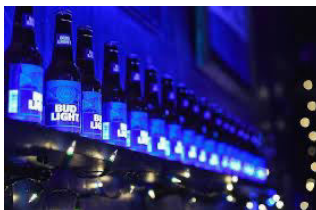

- Darryl downloaded the app and sealed the deal with the customer selling the 1997 Civic. He searched the dealer to find Justin

- He found Justin and told him he wanted to go to the local watering hole tonight and that Justin wouldn't have to pay for Darryl's drinks anymore. They rush out of work early and head to the bar.

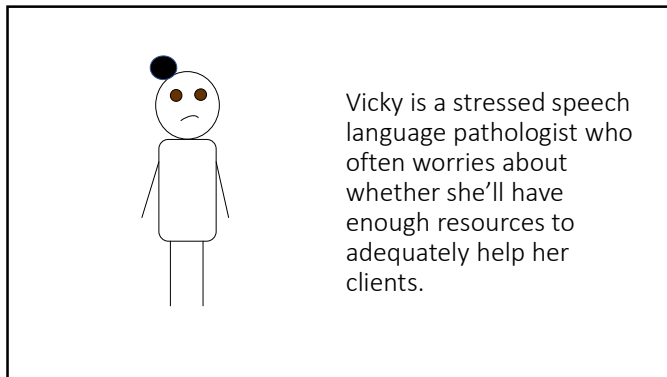

- They arrive at the bar and Darryl orders 10 bud light's while Justin only orders a Dr. Pepper. The bill comes.

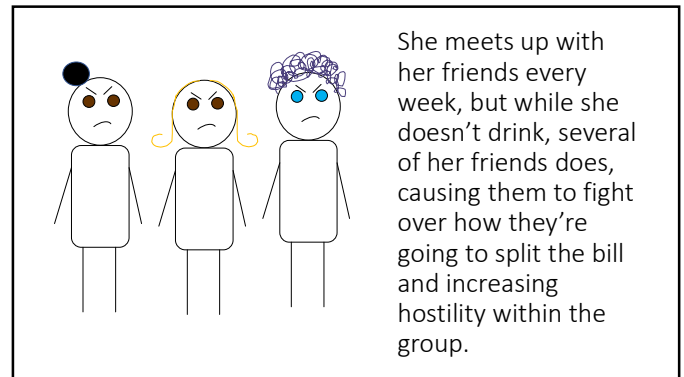

- Darryl breaks out the Drinkr app and surprises Justin. Justin is shocked. Darryl splits the bill having each other only pay for what they drank. They're both shocked at how well it works and they both drive back to their beautiful families.
